Billy:

Of course, you know a lot of things. Here I have what Bernadette has painstakingly compiled and listed regarding how many A4 pages I have written so far over the years regarding the mission.

Quetzal:

That is interesting, but it does not include that which you have written for us and which comes to us directly and automatically from your computer and is not recorded on your device so that it cannot be read without authorisation. Your work in this regard is supervised and processed by me personally, as I have been instructed to do. Your work in this regard, as I know exactly as a result of my work, since 1975 up to the present day, comprises 26,412 A4 pages, as you call the format of the writing pages.

Billy:

That is not exactly a masterstroke when I think that it took me about 50 years to do it. In that time I am sure someone more accomplished would have managed a lot more.

Quetzal:

That is certainly not the case, because first of all you only started with your computer work in 2001, although until then you worked with a typewriter. You also earned a living for your family as a security guard. And then you were also always busy in other ways, like you were busy setting up the centre afterwards.

Billy:

I do, but I still find – oh well, talking does not do any good anyway. So here are Bernadette's lists, which she had to spend a lot of time and effort on:
